

ABOUT ME

My name is James.
I used to go to Headlands and now I am a sales executive.

ABOUT MY JOB

Currently, I'm living in London, working as a sales executive for a global technology company.

My job allows me to travel all around Europe with the purpose of finding new customers to increase the company's revenue.

Having a large number of opportunities at Headlands to play sports, made me a very competitive person which is a key skill to succeed within sales.

SCHOOL RESULTS

I left Headlands in 2015. At A-Level, I achieved a Distinction* in a BTEC Level 3 Extended Diploma in Sports, as well as a B in Maths and C in Product Design.

FAVOURITE MEMORIES

My best memories were created in GCSE and A-Level classes.

With the groups being smaller and full of students who had a passion for PE, I had a lot of opportunities to play a large number of unique sports.

WHAT I DID NEXT

After leaving Headlands School, I went on to study BA (Hons) in Physical Education at Leeds Beckett University, where I achieved a 2:1 classification.

MY ADVICE TO STUDENTS

Apply yourself the best you can. It is OK to have weaknesses in particular subjects and be good at others.

However, if you apply yourself, get a good foundation set, you can focus on what is really important to you later in life.

Also, listen to your teachers! Annoyingly, they do always know what is best!
