Learning Outcomes	Students begin to grow by becoming aware of the sources of help available to them and begin to understand that learning, skills, qualifications and knowledge of the labour market are important for lifelong success. Students start to explore the range of possible jobs and the main learning pathways available to them. Through STEM activities, students become aware of the opportunities available to them in within science and technology industries. Through the PSHE and the whole school curriculum, students begin to develop an awareness of heritage and values and have opportunities to develop friendships and relationships with others. During PSHE and tutor, students develop an awareness of money and how to be a positive member of the community while understanding British Values, rights and responsibilities, prejudice and stereotypes. Students are encouraged to take initiative in their learning and there is the ethos of the importance of physical and mental wellbeing. Students develop their ability to learn from setbacks and challenges.

Learning Outcomes	Students consolidate and build on all of the careers learning from year 7. They continue to challenge themselves to try new things and become more aware of the different career sectors and that many require certain skills and minimum qualifications as part of the recruitment and selection process. Through the PSHE and the whole school curriculum, students continue to develop an awareness of heritage and British Values and have opportunities to develop friendships and relationships with others. During PSHE, students develop an awareness of how their choices can effect personal goals, including aspirations.

Learning Outcomes	Students build their confidence and optimism about their future and take responsibility in planning their pathway for the future while considering the risks and rewards. As part of the work experience programme, students challenge themselves to try new things and consider what jobs and roles they find interesting along with what might be available to them in the labour market. Through the opportunities available to students and their own research (including communicating with family and employers/employees), they become much more reflective on their experiences, learning and future pathways. They develop a knowledge of rights and responsibilities in the workplace and society and reflect on their physical and mental well-being.

Learning Outcomes	Careers learning is consolidated and students decide on the learning pathway they should pursue next while responding positively to help, support and feedback. They understand the need to positively engage in learning and take actions to achieve good outcomes. Students recognise the role they can play in their family and community and how this may shape their career. Aspirations Day helps to embed the learning and experiences that students have had and really focus their minds on how to move towards the next steps to a positive career.

Learning Outcomes	The sixth form careers programme builds on prior learning by equipping students with the knowledge, skills and experiences needed to make informed choices about their future. It supports them to take responsibility for their learning, reflect on their achievements and set ambitious goals. Students are encouraged to plan their next steps in education and work, explore labour market information, research pathways and qualifications, and understand workplace expectations and recruitment processes. The programme also promotes resilience, confidence and leadership, while helping students to develop networks and consider entrepreneurial opportunities. Alongside this, it emphasises the importance of balancing work, life, wellbeing and finances, and encourages students to reflect on heritage, identity and values when shaping their career direction. They are supported to recognise rights and responsibilities in the workplace, challenge prejudice and discrimination, and critically assess information sources. Finally, the programme helps students to understand how careers are influenced by wider factors, including technology, science, the environment, politics, the economy and society, preparing them to transition successfully into life beyond school.
